The story: The Orange district in central NSW is garnering attention as a form player in the sauvignon blanc business, and this is a fine example of why, with grapes grown above 900m on the slopes of Mt Canobolas, with vintage conditions forcing early picking.

The flavour: The tasting notes use the word "pretty" several times, from the very start, pretty spring flowers and herb gardens with a delicately cast and pretty palate with grapefruits, green pears and fresh finish.

WINESTATE

December 2010

Lovely fresh, lifted, herbaceous varietal fruit aromas, leading to an excellent full-flavoured fruit palate with a pleasant spiciness. The wine is fresh, crisp, zippy and dry.

Light straw-green; the clean, fresh bouquet is followed by an intensely zesty palate, tropical and citrus flavours in equal proportions; long, well-balanced finish. Screwcap.
